SRM ALUMNUS WINS FUTURE CEO OWLIE AWARD

Abinav Varma, a 2013 alumnus of Civil Engineering, was awarded the Future CEO Owlle Award by the Naveen Jindal School of Management at UT Dallas.

He and the UNIBEES team were awarded a USD 25,000 grant from the Institute of Innovation and Entrepreneurship at UT Dallas whose required criterion for selection is a business concept with the potential to scale to millions of dollars in revenue. He also took home an award of USD5000 by leading UNIBEES team to a 2nd place victory, beating out 109 teams, in the Business Idea Competition 2016. This victory got his name published on the front page of Dallas Innovates, a premier online innovation publication in Dallas, a D-Magazine company. Varma, who is pursuing MS in Finance in the Business school, launched an app called UNIBEES along with his teammates. Out of more than 10000 students, 701 leaders were nominated, culminating with Abinav receiving the coveted Future CEO Award.

Student volunteers are ready to take the lead and are looking forward to see alumni at the campus

ALMA MATER and ALUMNUS

Do you know the interesting meaning of these words?

The Latin noun alumnus means "foster son or pupil" and is derived from the verb alere "to nourish". Alma mater is an allegorical Latin phrase for a university or college. In modern usage, it is a school or university which an individual has attended, or a song or hymn associated with that school. The phrase is translated as "nourishing mother" or "fostering mother", suggesting that a school provides intellectual nourishment to its students.

The ancient Roman world had many statues of the Alma Mater. Modern sculptures are found in prominent locations on several American university campuses.

It just shows how important one's learning institutions are and the role they play in our lives. Let's honour our college/university the way we would our mothers - caring, loving and respecting. And it is time to have a statue in our university! A symbol that would stand the test of time.
