Objective of the event :

The event aimed at creating awareness on waste management, separation of waste, conversion of waste in to fertilizers and manure and to improve the livelihood of the village community of Chettipunyam village near Chengelpet on 16/8/23

Brief Description about the Event:

The Department of EIE and Department of Architecture, in association with UBA cell organised a 1 day “Value education outreach programme on waste management” to the local community people of one of the adopted village- Chettipunyam near Chengelpet on 16th August 2023.

Solid waste management is an ongoing problem in every society. In order to tackle the growing issues and to provide a permanent solution, an outreach on waste management was organized. The Speaker Mr.Sekar from ResourceTech, Chennai, highlighted on the various avenues to convert waste in to useful by-products, segregation of waste and how to generate revenue by converting in to a fertiliser/manure.

The outreach was attended by 10 student volunteers from the department of EIE who showed their societal responsibility in the form of audio visuals and explained the need for implementing waste management at home, society and a village as a whole. The attendees were distributed with free cloth bags, boxes and refreshments at the end of the program.

Participants' Engagement:

The village community people well received the ideas shared by the speaker and were engaged to observe the possibilities of solid waste management in the form of audio visuals, demonstrations, plastic recycling methods and presentations. Free plastic bags with boxes for refreshments were distributed to all the community workers.

Details of Guest Speakers and Topic of Discussion:

The speaker was Mr.R.Sekar, Proprietor of ResoureTech Chennai, explained the concept of waste management with suitable pictures and presentations. It was well received by the village community and there were some active discussions between the speaker and the village people.
